Bible was answer to NU prayers

D.X. Bible

By Curt McKeever

Dana Xenophon Bible, D.X. for short.

A man who, to most Nebrakans in 1929, had a background as mysterious as his peculiar middle name.

Fittingly, the name came from Greek mythology because for the next eight years, Bible answered many a prayer for Cornhusker football faithful.

During his eight-year tenure, Nebraska would go 50-15-7 and win six Big Six conference championships to leap into national prominence.

Amid the Great Depression and stock market crash, the program's blossoming drew the state together like never before.

"The thing that always impressed me about Nebraska was the statewide spirit and interest in the football team," Bible told Lincoln Star Sports Editor Don Bryant in 1959. "You could go 200 or 300 miles away from Lincoln and visit with a farmer in the field. He would always ask, 'How are we going to do?'"

The state's relationship with Bible didn't take long to develop, despite the fact that weeks before he was hired, Nebraska representatives knew little about this Tennessee native.

His teams at Texas A&M had won five Southwest Conference championships in 11 years, but Bible was not a candidate to replace outgoing NU Coach Elmer Bearg. At least he wasn't until a group of Nebraska representatives tried to lure Knute Rockne away from Notre Dame. Rockne declined but threw out Bible's name.

"If it's a coach just to win games, get so-and-so. If you want a good coach and also a real man, get Bible," then Star Sports Editor Cy Sherman recalled Rockne saying to the group.

Despite their skepticism, they met with Bible in Kansas City and came away so impressed that he was hired on the spot.

It was a highly praised move.

In a letter to Nebraska Chancellor Edgar A. Burnett, Oklahoma President W.B. Biznall, who had been at A&M with Bible, wrote: "He knows football as few men know the game, but, above all else, he is a gentleman and a scholar. You may be assured that as long as D.X. Bible coaches your team you will never be embarrassed because of any lack of sportsmanship or unethical practices connected with his athletic work. I think he is the greatest influence for good on a college campus that I have ever known."

Bible's devotion was evident in the fact that he didn't move to Lincoln until late March, after his wife had given birth.

Nebraska's prominence was also slow to arrive. Bible's first team went 4-1-3, and in 1930 Nebraska went 4-3-2. But fans had reason for hope.

In 1930, the Nebraska freshman squad featured four players who while competing at Lincoln High had never lost a home game. They were George Sauer, Bernie Masterson, Clair Bishop and Bruce Kilbourne. During the next three years, they duplicated their high school feat by not losing a game in Lincoln. All four were All-Big Six their senior season.

In 1931, with Masterson and Sauer in the backfield, NU went 8-2, its best record in a decade. One of those losses, on Nov. 26, two days after Bible had signed a five-year contract to continue at Nebraska, was the Cornhuskers' worst ever — a 40-0 setback at powerful Pittsburgh.

Sherman was so distraught that in a letter to the Star sports writer Gregg McBride he wrote: "Never before during all the days and years I have been stringing along with Nebraska teams had I considered it as much as a remote possibility that anybody's football team could pile up as many as 40 points against the Cornhuskers."

"Now I vow that almost anything is possible on a football field, because the Panthers actually made their 40 points quite as clean as a whistle and did it so decisively that, willing as I am to frame alibis, I am at this moment completely stopped."

"...The only out I can conjure is that the whole business is just a bad dream — a case of over-eating Thanksgiving mince pie or being

The cover painting is the third in a series of seven by sports artist Ted Watts of Oswego, Kan. They depict the seven eras of Nebraska football.

1 During the eight-year coaching regime of Dana X. Bible (1929-1936), the Cornhuskers could boast All-America credentials for the following players:

2 Sam Francis, (1934-1936), a National Football Hall of Fame inductee in 1977.

3 Larence Ely (1930-32), guard.

4 George Sauer (1931-33) was also inducted into the National Football Hall of Fame (1954).

5 Fred Shirey (1935-1937), tackle.

6 Hugh Rhea (1929-1931), tackle.

7 Raymond Richards (1927-1929), tackle.

8 In addition, Lloyd Cardwell (1934-1936) was an outstanding Cornhusker halfback of the Bible era.

The background shows Memorial Stadium during the early 1930s.

Lloyd "Wild Hoss" Cardwell (above and scoring a touchdown in 1936 at right) was a three-time All-Big Six selection and went on to play for the Detroit Lions. He is the only member of the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame earn a plaque as a player and a coach. He directed Omaha University to a Tangerine Bowl victory in 1954.

Iowa's Ozzie Simmons breaks loose for a touchdown against Nebraska in 1934. The Cornhuskers won 14-13.

Nebraska football chronology (1929-1936)

1929 Led by Blue Howell and Clair Sloan the pile-driving Huskers go 4-1-3 under Dana Xenophon Bible, NU's 17th head coach in 40 years.

1930 Nebraska fails to make a first down but ties Pitt 0-0. The freshman team has four Lincoln High grads in Bernie Masterson, George Sauer, Clair Bishop and Bruce Kilbourne. They never lost a game in Lincoln, either at Lincoln High or at NU.

1931 Cornhuskers finish 8-2, losing both non-conference road games, 19-7 to Northwestern and 40-0 to Pittsburgh.

1932 Center Lawrence Ely earns All-America honors as Cornhuskers finish 7-1-1, losing 7-6 to Minnesota at Minneapolis and tying Pittsburgh 0-0 in Lincoln.

1933 Only a loss to Pitt leaves NU ranked No. 2 in the nation. All-American George Sauer leads West to 12-0 win over East in annual College Shrine game. NU shuts out first three opponents, Texas, Iowa State and Kansas State.

1934 Lloyd Cardwell, Sam Francis and Bernie Scherer move up to varsity and lead NU to 6-3 record.

1935 NU beats U. of Chicago and All-American and first pick in the first NFL draft Jay Berwanger, also the first Heisman Trophy winner.

1936 A heartbreaking 7-0 loss to national champion Minnesota, on a blocked punt near the end of the game, and a loss to powerful Pitt were the only losses.

Bible

overcome by Pittsburgh smoke."

Bible remained undaunted and claimed Nebraska would be back when the teams played in Lincoln in 1932.

"I am confident we shall have a team capable in every way of putting Pitt in its place," Bible told Sherman on a train back to Lincoln. "Beating Pitt is the big business we have on hand for next fall. Nothing else will matter so much as that of putting the Panthers in their place."

Bible seldom spoke in such tones, but his pride had been damaged.

Less than a week later, Nebraska scored 20 points in the fourth quarter to beat Colorado State 20-7 in a post-season charity game played at Denver. It set the tone for the 1932 season, in which Nebraska went 7-1-1.

The Cornhuskers had lost to equally powerful Minnesota 7-6 and entered the game against Pittsburgh with a 5-1 record. An underdog against Coach Jock Sutherland's Panthers, Nebraska battled to a 0-0 tie.

Nebraska had its best team under Bible in 1931, when it went 8-1, losing at Pittsburgh 6-0 on a fourth-quarter touchdown. Under the Dickinson Rating System, the Cornhuskers, who had shut out six opponents and held three others to a lone touchdown, were ranked second in the nation. Sauer was on almost everybody's All-America list.

Bible's teams never did beat Pitt (going 0-6-2) or Minnesota (0-4), but he figured the classic battles would prepare the Cornhuskers for conference play.

Sure enough, during Bible's reign, Nebraska lost just three times in the Big Six.

"D.X. Bible could get more out of his players than any man I have ever known," said Sauer.

With Sauer and Masterson departing after the 1933 season, Nebraskans wondered about the future. Once again, Bible turned to the freshman squad, where he found Lloyd Cardwell and Sam Francis.

Together, the two scored 32 touchdowns and 222 points to help Nebraska to a 19-7-1 record during the next three seasons.

Cardwell, from Seward, scored the first time he touched the ball in a 50-0 victory against Wyoming and the last time he ran with it in a 32-14 victory against Oregon State in 1936.

He ran the ends under Bible's single- and double-wing offense. He was the Wild Hoss.

"It's his roaring, tearing, gay free-booting way that reminds me of the defiant, joyous speeding wild horse of the prairie that loves to run with the wind," wrote Omaha World-Herald Sports Editor Frederick Ware.

Francis, who was born in Dunbar and went to high school in Oberlin, Kan., threw the shot put for the 1936 Olympic team and played tailback for the Huskers. In 1935, he played one of his best games in a 28-7 victory against the University of Chicago, which featured eventual Heisman Trophy winner Jay Berwanger.

Berwanger scored an early touchdown, but Francis returned the ensuing kickoff 87 yards for a score and added two more touchdowns.

Francis' senior campaign had many declaring him as the nation's most outstanding player — even though voters for the Heisman selected Yale's Larry Kelley.

Francis' character (and Bible's demeanor) were showcased during Nebraska's game against Indiana that season.

The Cornhuskers trailed 9-0 at halftime. In the locker room, Bible offered starting positions to the first 11 men out the door. There was a stampede for the exit, but Bible blocked the exit, still questioning the team's desire.

The tension erupted and there was plenty of scuffling among teammates. Finally, the door was opened and the Cornhuskers took the field. Among the first out was Francis, who overcame a first-half injury to score two touchdowns in a 13-9 win.

Cardwell and Francis ended their careers at Nebraska in 1936, but Nebraskans worried less about who would replace them when on Jan. 22, 1937, Bible announced that he was leaving to coach at the University of Texas. His salary offer was an unheard of $15,000 per year for 10 years — $7,500 more annually than the school's president was being paid.

Wrote Sherman, when learning that Bible was considering the Texas post: "if D.X. is to pass from our midst, the Nebraska public, while viewing his departure with profound regret, would wish him well in going, after which Nebraska, compelled with great reluctances to seek a new leader, would find that new leader — and then proceed to carry on."

When Bible accepted the Texas job, gloom hung over the Cornhusker state. Said Francis, "I feel just like somebody had died."

The Star's John Bentley summed up the feelings of most when he wrote: "Looking over the eight seasons which Coach Bible directed the Cornhuskers, there is one thing that stands out. Few times were his teams engaged in drab, colorless contests. There were one or two exceptions, early in his career, but for the most part every game was a thriller."

"...Certainly the best investment Nebraska ever made was bringing D.X. Bible here at what some still think a fancy figure. Nebraska U., never paid a nickel of the salary that went to him. The games which he provided more than provided it."

D.X. Bible (left) greets Amos Alonzo Stagg in 1935. Stagg's University of Chicago football team was in Lincoln to play the Cornhuskers. Nebraska won 28-7.

Kansan Francis led Cornhuskers into prominence in the 1930s

By Curt McKeever

Harrison Sam Francis must have been a Nebraskan at heart, for it was a rare thing in the early 1930s to have someone from outside the Cornhusker state come play football for the university in Lincoln.

Even rarer was it when a Nebraska coach would venture across the state border to take a look at a prospect.

But in Oberlin, Kan., a small community tucked away in the north-central portion of the Jayhawk state, just south of McCook, plenty of folks were taking notice of Francis.

Four years later, many others were probably wishing they had, as Francis' name was synonymous with the Cornhusker football team emerging into national prominence. Francis also received accolades in track, and in the 1936 Olympics at Berlin he finished fourth in the shot put.

"The funny thing is that all through high school I thought my strongest sports were basketball and baseball," said Francis, a retired Army lieutenant colonel now residing in Springfield, Mo. "I always figured my least chance for success at the college level were in football and track."

In 1932, Nebraska track coach Henry Schulte and football coach D.X. Bible were not of that belief. Both were after Francis' talents, but Kansas' legendary basketball coach, Phog Allen, beat them to Francis' door and convinced him to become a Jayhawk... at least for a short time.

"I was on the campus at KU for about two weeks just before school started," Francis recalled. "But the guys I was around were big-city boys and I was just a simple little old town guy and didn't feel real comfortable."

So without telling anyone at Kansas, Francis, the seventh of 10 children, born in Dunbar, Neb., packed and left for Lincoln.

"I was a little afraid and everything, but I'll never forget my first day of school," Francis said. "The first guy I met was Johnny Howell, a big guy from Omaha who was a quarterback. "We hit it up and that gave me a little bit of confidence."

Sam Francis in the army.

Three years later, the two were helping Nebraska win its sixth Big Six Conference championship in eight years under Bible, a coach of deep integrity who became known as the little colonel.

"He was firm and a good disciplinarian," Francis said. "But it didn't reflect that way. He was like a dad to me — he was one of the grandest of guys."

One who could get a team to do incredible things. Like in 1936, when no conference team scored against Nebraska.

Four seasons earlier, Francis and his freshmen teammates showed that kind of ability against the Cornhusker varsity.

Freshmen weren't allowed to play with the varsity in those days, so "we scrimmaged the varsity all year and got beat on," Francis said.

But not always.

"D.X. had a helluva team, but we had to quit playing against them because in one of the big scrimmages about the second or third week of the season they couldn't score against us."

The next three years, Nebraska opponents had trouble keeping Francis, and running mate Lloyd Cardwell out of the end zone, as they combined for 32 touchdowns and 222 points. Francis led the league in scoring his senior season (he had an added incentive... the owner of Bob's Coffee Shop offered meal tickets for certain accomplishments) and finished a close second to Yale end Larry Kelley in the Heisman Trophy voting. In a poll of 1,498 players, he led the nation with an efficiency rating of 97.85 percent. Of 127 opposing players, all but one called him the best they had faced.

Francis was a first-round draft choice of the Chicago Bears, and after competing in the Olympics, played with them for two seasons before going to the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Professional League. He was already to play a third season when he was drafted again... into the U.S. Army.

"Everyone took military classes for two years, but I took advanced military after that because you'd get paid $30 every month or so," Francis recalled. "I really hadn't planned on making a career out of the military and here I am one of the first ones ordered in."

Francis left the service in 1947 to take the head football coaching job at Kansas State. But after an 0-10 season, one in which K-State lost six times by two touchdowns or less, Francis rejoined the forces when offered a regular commission.

Francis was inducted into the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame in 1972 and the National Football Hall of Fame in 1977. Soon to be 76 years of age, his vigor for Nebraska football is strong as ever. He still travels to Lincoln once or twice a year to take in a game.

"I'd love to play like they do today. We played all the time (both offense and defense) and after awhile of backing up the (defensive) line, you didn't have too much energy to run," he said.

But even in a trot, Francis could bring Nebraska football to an unprecedented level of excitement.

SUPER MUSCLE BUILDER

Safe Steroid Alternative Available Now At The Golden Carrot

CHROMIUM PICOLINATE

CHROMIUM PICOLINATE, A Natural Safe Nutritional Alternative to Anabolic Steroids, is a nutritional breakthrough! Two successive double-blind, placebo controlled human studies clearly demonstrated the remarkable muscle-building effect of Chromium Picolinate.

The results of these studies show that chromium picolinate accelerates the development of lean body mass and subsequent loss of body fat by "escorting" amino acids out of the blood stream and into the cells where they are assembled into enzymes, hormones, organ tissue and muscle tissue.

Since nine out of ten Americans get too little chromium it stands to reason that by restoring this mineral in biologically active form to optimal levels, muscle synthesis will improve in nearly everyone.

Chromium Picolinate is on sale now at the Golden Carrot, 6900 "O" Street, Lincoln, NE 68510. 466-5713. Phone & mail orders filled promptly.

Sam Francis (center), a 1936 All-America fullback and an Olympic shot putter, was named to the National Football Hall of Fame in 1977. Joining Francis on the field at halftime of the Nebraska-Alabama game were NU Athletic Director Bob Devaney (left) and Hall of Fame member Fred Singleton (right). Francis was installed in the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame in 1972. Other former Nebraska players in the National Football Hall of Fame are Forrest Behm, Guy Chamberlin, Bobby Reynolds, George Sauer, Clarence Swanson and Ed Weir. NU coaches in the National Football Hall of Fame are Dana X. Bible, Bob Devaney, Biff Jones, E. N. Robinson and Fielding Yost.

YEARS OF EXCELLENCE IN DENTAL EDUCATION
1899-1989

College of Dentistry

This week, the college celebrates a proud tradition. The College of Dentistry alumni extend their congratulations.

University of Nebraska College of Dentistry Alumni Association.

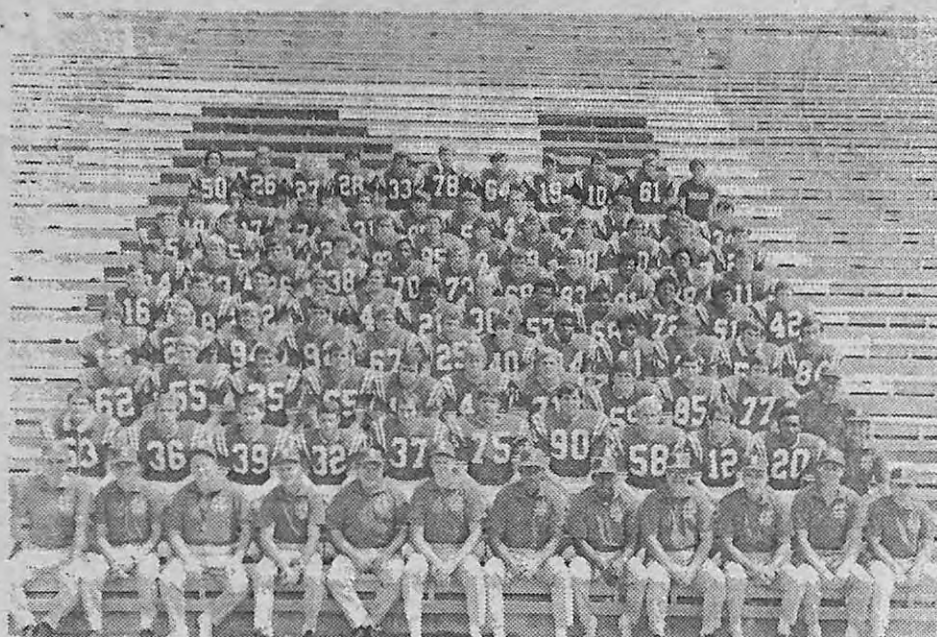

Change is part of growth. Just look at the 90-year history of the UNMC College of Dentistry. From deans W. Clyde Davis to Stephen Leeper...downtown Lincoln to East Campus...University of Nebraska-Lincoln to University of Nebraska Medical Center.

Yet one thing hasn't changed: the commitment to a tradition of excellence in dental education.

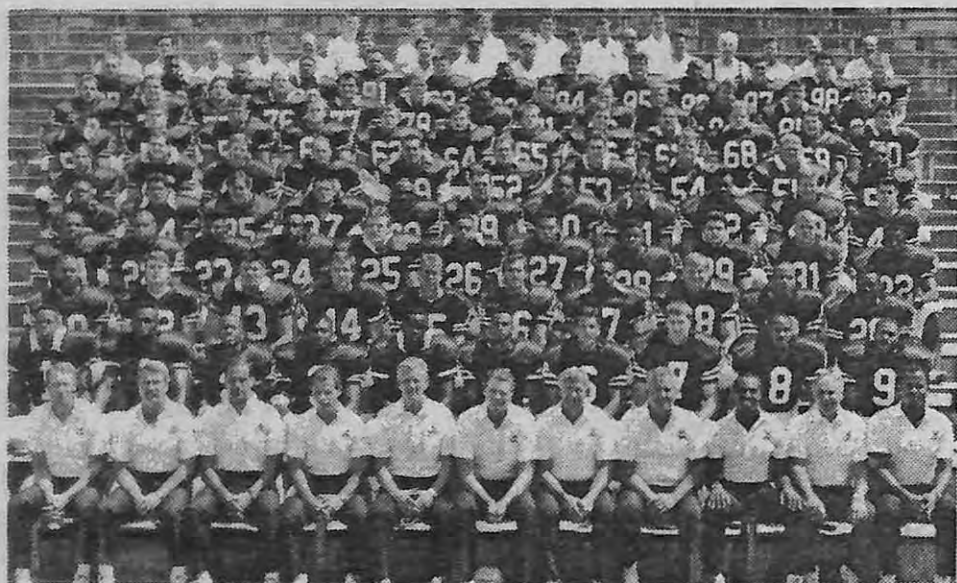

In 90 years, the College of Dentistry has trained 3000 dentists and dental hygienists ...and, as a result, has met the dental care needs of thousands of Nebraskans.

1989 NEBRASKA FOOTBALL CENTENNIAL

*A Salute
To All
Cornhuskers Teams, Old & New*

1971 Team — The undefeated 1971 team repeated its national championship title under Head Coach Bob Devaney by defeating Oklahoma 35-31 in Norman, and Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide 38-6 in the Orange Bowl.

1989 squad — The 100th Nebraska football team. As a decade comes to a close, the 1989 team looks to defend its Big Eight Championship title and continue the tradition that has made Nebraska the winningest team of the 1980s. The University's first team took the field on Nov. 27, 1890, against the Omaha YMCA. That first Nebraska team is pictured on the opposite page.

*And To All The Loyal Fans Who Have Supported
UNL Teams For
The Past Century*

Brush up on your Husker history.

The 1989 official Nebraska schedule poster is destined to be a collector's item. This year's full color poster features Husker memorabilia, trophies, pictures and artifacts depicting the rich Nebraska tradition of football and the legendary Huskers who established that tradition.

Fullback Chaffey helps Oregon St. gain some long-sought notoriety

By Ken Hambleton

It's been a long time since Oregon State had a running back whom anybody knew about.

The Oregon State all-time rushing list is headed by historical figures. It was long ago when Bill "Earthquake" Enyart (1968), Dave Mann (1951), Dave Schilling (1971) and Pete Pifer (1966) ran for the Beavers. Only one player from the past nine seasons holds a spot in Oregon State's top 10 all-time rushing list.

Pat Chaffey may change that. At least, the 6-2, 214-pound fullback has a chance to dent the top 10s in rushing, receiving and all-purpose yards.

That opportunity is a sign of the changes for the Beavers this year.

"I came here with the thought I could be a part of the rebuilding of the Oregon State football program," Chaffey said. "And since I've been here, I've seen this program gain respect. Now, we need to get the wins to go with it."

Chaffey has played an important part in Oregon State's rise to a 4-6-1 record last season and a 2-1 mark this year.

He started 10 games last year and earned All-American honorable mention status. His average of 105 all-purpose yards per game in 1988 has been eclipsed by his 115 all-purpose yards per game in three contests this year.

Chaffey is in 11th place in Oregon State's all-time all-purpose career yards. He's 237 yards short of cracking the top 10 rushing list, and he's already ninth in career receiving.

"I love to get my hands on the ball," Chaffey said.

"The feeling is mutual," Oregon State Coach Dave Kragthorpe said.

Chaffey said his position is styled after former Stanford, and current Chicago Bear, fullback Brad Muster. "I try to run as hard as I can when I'm carrying the ball. But I've worked awful hard on my pass catching," Chaffey said.

"I saw Muster play my freshman year when we played at Stanford and I thought that would be the way for me to become a college player. And now, when people make comparisons, that's fine with me."

Chaffey said he hopes to have a chance to play in the pros when he completes his eligibility.

"I guess that being a runner-receiver should help me. But if it doesn't work out, I'll have my degree in business finance this December and I'll pursue something along that line," he said.

The prospect of playing at Nebraska could be a big step for Chaffey and his team this season, he said.

"We've seen all kinds of defenses run at us this year, and now we're going to see what is evidently one of the best overall defenses in the country in Nebraska," he said. "We're looking for the attack and the way we'll counter is with balance of passing and running."

"It's worked for us when we beat Stanford. It didn't work so well when we lost to Washington State. And then we showed some very good offense when we drove 97 yards with three minutes to go to beat Boise State last week."

Chaffey said some big-play passes and some running to keep the Boise State defense honest made the drive work.

"The important thing for us was we came back and played the way we know we can to win the game," he said. "Maybe we were overconfident before that point, but that drive proved something to ourselves."

Proving something is important to Chaffey.

"Our confidence in ourselves and the program is there," he said. "I'd like to see the team do better, and I know with the team's success, I'll have my own personal success."

Mike Shields

Oregon State fullback Pat Chaffey earned honorable mention All-America status in 1988.

Beavers at a glance

Record: 2-1.
Key Players: fullback Pat Chaffey, linebackers Scott Sanders, Todd Sahfeld, defensive end Pelfom McDaniels, quarterback Nick Schichtle, tight end Phil Ross, cornerback Brian Beck, safety Scott Thompson.

Strengths: The multiple offense with fullback Chaffey has proven tougher than in recent years. Balance between passing and runhelps that. The defensive line is big, mobile and, because of a gambling philosophy, can make the big plays many times.

Weaknesses: The gambling on defense does create big plays, but too often for the opposing offense. There is a problem of depth at linebacker where two of the top four players are out for the year and the other two top linebackers have been hampered by injuries. Two defensive backs lead the team in tackles.

Notes: Nebraska is 7-2 against Oregon State. The last time the two teams played Nebraska won 7-6 in 1959. Coach Dave Kragthorpe is 14-32-1 in his fifth year at Oregon State, while Tom Osborne is 161-36-2 in his 17th year at Nebraska. Oregon State was 4-6-1 last year with four of the losses by a touchdown or less. Place kicker Troy Bussonich has not missed an extra point in two years and has kicked nine consecutive field goals, including six this year.

games, the Redskins gave up 864 yards and 69 points.
Washington quarterback Mark Rypien has fumbled six times in 12 games, leading to 31 points for the opposition. Bobby Hebert should be able to start at quarterback for 1-2 New Orleans. He was knocked wooly and lost a tooth on a late hit midway through the first quarter against Tampa Bay. New Orleans quarterback Mike Tomczak is 19-3 as a starter, the best record in the NFL. Last week's 10th straight win against Detroit improved the Bears' record to 3-0.

since former Bears defensive coordinator Buddy
Ryan took over the Eagles' head coaching spot.
Ryan, whose team is off to a 2-1 start, has lost all game in the fog.

Midland QB hopes to be a speed reader at Peru

By Mark Derowitsch

Midland quarterback Tim Siefkes will take a reading test this week, and it won't be in the class room.

Siefkes said his test will be against the Peru State defense. The Warriors will face Peru State Saturday in the Oak Bowl in Peru at 1:30 p.m.

"I have to go a good job on the reads," said Siefkes, who runs the Warriors' wishbone offense. "I need to see where the holes are by the reads. Actually, when you run the wishbone, you just try to put the ball at the right spot."

Midland has been running well this season. The Warriors are sixth in the NAIA Division II in rushing offense, averaging 307.67 yards per game.

Siefkes said the reason Midland has been successful on the ground this year is because of depth. Running back Doug Harrington is the Warriors' leading rusher, averaging 99 yards per game.

"All of our backs are capable of breaking a long run," said Siefkes, a sophomore from Waverly. "You can't key on one back, and you have to give our whole backfield respect. It doesn't matter who gets the job done as long as it's getting done."

Fullback Brant Anderson and Harrington each rushed for more than 700 yards last season. Siefkes said, Anderson can do other things from his fullback position.

"He's an excellent blocker," Siefkes said. "But then, all of our backs have to be good blockers."

Midland Coach Don Watchorn said Siefkes has improved a lot since last season. Siefkes started Midland's last four games last year as a freshman. Last week, Siefkes rushed for 137 yards in Midland's 42-20 win against Dakota Wesleyan. He scored three touchdowns and was named the NAIA District 11 Player of the Week.

"He's come a long way," said Watchorn, whose Warriors enter the game against Peru State with a 2-1 record. "He's really getting better every game. He's also provided us with some good leadership."

Siefkes said the Warriors must perform well offensively in order to defeat Peru State. The Bobcats are 3-1 and ranked No. 24 in the NAIA Division II.

Tim Siefkes

Nebraska colleges

"We feel we definitely have to control the ball," he said. "That is one of the big keys. We need to keep their defense on the field a long time and wear them out by running right at them. If we can do that, we'll have a good chance to win the game."

Watchorn agreed.

"We have to keep their offense off the field," Watchorn said. "If you don't, they'll be in the end zone all day."

Peru State is averaging 42.75 points per game, third best in NAIA Division II. Also, the Bobcats are fourth in total offense averaging 477.75 yards per game.

Nate Bradley, a sophomore from Newark, N.J., is averaging 221.3 yards passing per game. He's completed 66 of 118 passes for 885 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Mark Whitaker is the Bobcats' leading rusher with 423 yards on 49 carries. James Jerry has rushed for 339 yards for Peru State.

"I'm sure we're going to have to score a lot to win," Watchorn said. "They do so many things well. They have a good quarterback who can throw the ball, and they have a lot of good running backs. You can't really gear up and try to stop one area, because they can hurt you in a lot of different ways."

There aren't many ha-ha's in Minnehaha state this year; Liz Taylor for commissioner?

By Steve Harvey
Universal Press Syndicate

The colleges

It's been a year to forget for the state of Minnesota. The Twin Cities have been betrayed by Gophers (clobbered by Nebraska), Vikings (who lost to a semipro team out of Pittsburgh), Twins (fading out of sight), with more disappointments to come from the NBA expansionist Timberwolves.

In addition, a new federal study indicates that Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport ranks No. 1 in the Bottom Ten of noisiest flight facilities in the nation.

The Gophers are typical members of the hapless Big Ten (10-13 overall). No. 10 Ohio State fell to USC, 3-42, despite the fact that the Trojans were without their strongest runner — equine mascot Traveler IV, who suffered an ankle injury at a pregame rally. Traveler V, who had planned to red-blanket this season, was pressed into action instead.

Like Ohio State, Illinois was burned but in a different manner. Following the Illini's 41-2 win over Utah State, someone set fire to 40 yards of artificial turf in the team's stadium. One thing about artificial turf, though: It grows back fast.

The pros

While rookie Dallas owner Jerry Jones continued his campaign to have Liz Taylor named as the new NFL commissioner, the Cowboys ran their record to 0-3. Obviously, the replacement of Tom Landry by Jimmy Johnson has made a big difference. At least Dallas won three games last year.

In the Meadowlands, a crowd of 75,742 — 75,743 if you count Jimmy Hoffa — were present as the Giants pass rushers buried Phoenix QB Gary Hogeboom. He was sacked five times and had four passes intercepted in a 35-7 Cards loss.

Meanwhile, Miami's millionaire receiver Mark Clayton gave new meaning to the term "costly mistakes" with four drops in the first game after he ended his holdout, including two in the final 20 seconds of a 33-40 loss to the New Jersey Jets.

And Detroit (0-3) announced that rookie Rodney Peete would probably start at quarterback Sunday, replacing Bob Gagliano, who was married Monday and may not be available for the game.

CRUMMY GAME OF THE WEEK: Pittsburgh (1-2) vs. Detroit (0-4).

QUOTE BOOK I: How hopeless is Minnesota's kicking situation? Before the Vikes signed Rich Karlis, Coach Jerry Burns said that the team was willing to try out "any guy that's ever laced a shoe. Fred Cox. George Blanda. Anybody still alive."

Auburn should terminate Tennessee's winning ways

By Rick Warner
Associated Press

What a difference a year makes.

When Tennessee played Auburn last season, the Volunteers were 0-3 and some fans in Knoxville were calling for Johnny Majors' scalp.

Things got worse before they got better. Tennessee was crushed 38-6 by Auburn and lost twice more before rebounding to win its last five games under a revamped coaching staff.

The Volunteers have continued their winning ways this season, beating Colorado State, UCLA and Duke and rising to No. 12 in The Associated Press poll. On Saturday, they put their eight-game winning streak on the line at home against No. 4 Auburn, which has won its first two games by a combined score of 79-3.

If the Volunteers are going to beat Auburn this year, they'll have to do it through the air. The Tigers led the nation in rushing defense last season and held every SEC opponent under 100 yards on the ground.

Auburn is favored by 5½ points. ... AUBURN 21-14.

In another major matchup, 10th-ranked Pittsburgh travels to Morgantown, W.Va., to take on No. 9 West Virginia.

West Virginia quarterback Major Harris, a leading contender for the Heisman Trophy, grew up in Pittsburgh. Alex Van Pelt, Pitt's sensational redshirt freshman quarterback, was raised in West Virginia. That's why they call this 94-year-old rivalry the "Backyard Brawl."

West Virginia is favored by 3 points. ... WEST VIRGINIA 28-24.

No. 1 Notre Dame (minus 31) at Purdue: The last three times Purdue played a top-ranked Fighting Irish team, the Boilermakers won. That was then. This is now. ... NOTRE DAME 48-14.

AP college picks

No. 2 Miami (minus 13) at Michigan State: After outscoring its first three opponents 120-13, Miami finally gets a test. ... MIAMI 27-14.

Eagles should be able to see the Bears win this time

By Dave Goldberg
Associated Press

The last time Randall Cunningham and Buddy Ryan went to Chicago a lot of bad things happened to them.

Their only consolation was that nobody could see it — at least in the second half.

That was last January in the Eagles' first playoff game since 1981. The Eagles dropped passes in the end zone, had TDs called back by penalties and then disappeared into the fog that rolled in off Lake Michigan just before halftime.

Philadelphia returns to Chicago on Monday night, not only for a taste of revenge, but to try to get Ryan his first coaching victory in three starts against Mike Ditka, his ex-employer and long-time adversary. The odds-makers are laying 3½ points that he won't get it.

The Cunningham miracles ended temporarily last Sunday when the quarterback of the '90s was overshadowed by the quarterback of the '80s, Joe Montana. Mike Tomczak isn't exactly Montana. But the Bears will be at home, fired up by the Ditka-Ryan feud and ready to contain Cunningham ... BEARS 27-23.

Los Angeles Rams (plus 5) at San Francisco: The Rams were probably thinking about this one after they went up 24 points at halftime over the Packers and almost blew it. But after San Francisco's three games on the road, Candlestick looks sweet ... 49ERS 31-22.

Football Traffic Safety Tips

1. During Football Saturday traffic jams, it may take a full tank of gas to go one block. Remember to fill up first at a U-STOP.
2. When caught in such traffic jams, keep at least 12 U-STOP cup lengths behind the car ahead. In fact, buy 12 U-STOP cups and measure to make sure.
3. Since you may have to park some distance from Memorial Stadium, load up on hiking provisions. Include plenty of fresh deli sandwiches made the way you like them.
